

Matt Pope is a singer, composer, and music producer currently based in Oxford. He studied Music at the University of Manchester before attaining a master's degree in Composition under the direction of Roger Redgate at Goldsmiths College, London. He has performed with many choirs, including the New London Chamber Choir and The Renaissance Singers. In the academic year 2020/21, Matt held the tenor lay clerkship at Keble College, during which time he studied with Rebecca Outram, and performed in the Pusey House quartet. As well as this, he has sung in many of Oxford's most prestigious choirs, and has recorded discs with both the Magdalen choir and critically-acclaimed vocal ensemble The Oxford Gargoyles.
