

Daniel Gilchrist, Baritone

Daniel Gilchrist was educated at Gonville and Caius College, Cambridge, where he received an invigorating choral education at the hands of Geoffrey Webber and Paul Brough, which was followed by a year in the choir of King's College under the inspiring direction of Daniel Hyde. He is now based at New College, and is also a composer especially of choral, vocal and chamber music. His love for lieder and song stems from an early age and has continued to be a driving force into his twenties with recent performances including renditions of Dichterliebe and An die Ferne Geliebte. He studies with Nicki Kennedy.
