

Tom Burkill

Tom is a second-year undergraduate music student at New College, focusing primarily on choral performance. Before university, he was a Quirister (treble) for Winchester College Chapel Choir directed under Malcom Archer. He was involved with tours to Holland, Russia and France as well as three published recordings, one of which (Stanford: Choral Music) was sung in Merton College Chapel. In 2015, he was the Reserve Finalist for BBC Young Chorister of the Year and soon after received an instrumental and choral exhibition to Winchester College. As well as receiving a choral scholarship from Worcester College Chapel Choir, Tom is also an accompanist for New College recitals as well as an avid composer, writing music for CHROMA ensemble in Oxford as well as being workshopped by DECA artist Rebecca Dale. He continues to study composition under New College composer Luke Lewis while also depping for New College Chapel Choir.
