

Felicity Howard is a second-year undergraduate at The Queen's College reading Music, where she holds a choral scholarship. She started singing at age 15, and since then has enjoyed singing the role of Gabriel in Haydn's Creation and performing in the world premiere of Convo in the Royal Albert Hall. Felicity has recently participated in CD recordings, concerts, and tours with Queen's Choir. Alongside singing, Felicity plays the bassoon and enjoys being involved in orchestras in Oxford.